

Securmax is proud to be a Certified Elite partner with Genetec, a company that shares our passion for innovative, adaptive, and proven security solutions that maximize resources and operational efficiencies.

Developed with a focus on first responders and public safety stakeholders, Genetec's public safety solutions allow you to take a proactive approach in managing everyday operations, public events and emergency situations.

Protect people, assets and facilities:

Coordinating emergency management through a common framework means your operations centre and field teams have all the required information, providing early warnings and insights to better prepare frontline employees and first responders.

Improve operational efficiency:

With shared access to a variety of data sources, agencies can improve resource management, better measure the effectiveness of new initiatives, train frontline employees, and optimize strategies to prepare for potential threats.

Gain insights from city operations:

Unified, tactical security operations systems provide a macro view of situations based on shared data and intelligence, supporting the development of comprehensive strategies that improve public safety.

Dedicated to Innovation and Professional Excellence for Over 25 Years

For over 25 years, Securmax has been a trusted partner for businesses and communities as they look to ensure the security and comfort of their employees, facilities and the public. As a leader in smart building systems, we support our clients at every stage of the process - from conception and installation through to integration and maintenance. Our success has been built on our partnership model that ensures the unique needs of each client are identified and met with reliable, robust and customized solutions.

Step 1: Needs Assessment

The Securmax needs assessment takes a deep dive not only into current requirements, but a forward-looking view into future needs, ensuring your systems will evolve with you.

Step 2: Operations Review

Equally important to what a system needs to accomplish is how our clients want to interact with that system. Maximizing operational efficiency is a critical component of every project – because we understand that resources are scarce and everyone’s time is valuable.

Step 3: System Recommendation

With a 360° understanding of requirements, Securmax will recommend the most reliable and robust systems in the market from partners we trust. These recommendations are often modular, allowing for phased implementations based on available budgets and resources.

Step 4: System Adaptations

At Securmax, we’ll never ask you to adapt to an off-the-shelf solution. Our manufacturing partners share our open architecture philosophy, allowing for unique applications that are customized to your unique requirements.
